Telegraph Starts On First Trip of Season

Early Monday morning the river boat, Telegraph, started on her first trip of the season.

For about a week the Telegraph has been waiting for the river to open, and getting necessary repairs.

The river has been open as far as Andrews Creek for several days, but only Saturday morning did news come of it being open as far as Telegraph.

The passengers are: For Telegraph; Mr. and Mrs. Warnock, F. C. and W. Mitchell, W. Wheir and J. P. Allen. For the Boudry, C. A. Terbo.

Our Coming Visitors

The appropriation of $10,000 for the expenses of a committee—composed of Senators Nelson, Smoot, Dixon (Republicans), Simmons and Bankhead (Democrats), Congressmen Hamilton, Robinson and Goode (Republicans), and Fitzgerald and Shirley (Democrats)—to investigate the conditions in Alaska means that we may safely prepare now to welcome our coming guests, for no bunch of congressmen is going to turn down a trip at the expense of the government—especially a trip to Alaska.

There may be coarse and vulgar sourdoughs who hoot every time they hear of one of these congressional investigations for the benefit of Alaska; and it may be true that Alaska has hardly reaped any scintillating prosperity from these 'invests.' Still we should be thankful for all the hope we can squeeze out of this one. Maybe the high-brows will insert their right hands into their frock coats and tell us where lies our troubles, as well as show us where goes our pay.—Yukon Valley News,

Dance a Success

Several of Wrangell's young people enjoyed the dance at the Wrangell Hotel last Saturday evening. It was gotten up on such short notice that it was not very generally known. The Filipino music was enjoyed greatly and all seemed pleased to hear that they were engaged to play for a dance in the near future.

Indian Drowned

Son of Chief Shakes Missing

Moses Shakes, son of Chief Shakes, mysteriously disappeared from his gasboat, Yankee, on the night of the 13th.

Moses and a party consisting of Donald Austin and wife, Ellen Jackson and a little girl started for the Stickine on a pleasure trip Saturday. Sometime in the afternoon they reached the mouth of Andrew's Creek but owing to the low tide they grounded on a bar and was unable to go up the creek to Andrew's Cabin. The Yankee was then backed from the bar into the Stickine and anchored and the party with the exception of Moses went ashore in the two small boats.

The whole party seemingly and according to their story went to bed although it was still very early for a pleasure party to retire.

The next morning Austin and wife rowed out to the Yankee and came back to the cabin reporting Moses was not on his boat. A search was immediately made but Moses could not be found. Then the boat was closely examined by the party of hunters that camped at Andrews cabin and Moses hat, coat, shoes and empty purse was found in the boat. The wiring of the engine was tangled and disconnected and a closer search disclosed blood spots on the engine, floor, sidewalk and bedding.

After a thorough search for the body the party returned to Wrangell and reported the facts to Chief Shakes and the officials.

That evening the party of hunters together with Chief Shakes and George Shakes, went back to Andrews Creek to make a more thorough search for the body but failed to recover it.

From the condition of the boat and the fact that the whole party went to bed while it was yet early in the afternoon, it looks as though drink was responsible for the accident or crime if crime was committed.

The Yukon Opens

Dawson, May 9.—There was general rejoicing here late yesterday when the Yukon river opened with a roar in front of town, and today the ice is jamming in its wild ride down stream.

By Monday the advance guard of the Dawson stampede will get away by steamer.—Juneau Dispatch.

Direct Communication With Seattle Soon

Seattle, May 8.—The huge wireless tower which has been under course of construction at West Seattle, is almost completed and as soon as the last piece of apparatus is in place, tests will be made.

The Alaska Steamship Company has made arrangements for a booth for an Alaska exhibit if one can be gathered.

New York City has a population of four millions and any exhibit of resources and products in that over-crowded city cannot fail to attract the attention of many people.

If anyone has any information as to the possibility of getting such an exhibit together, they can help Alaska by conveying such information to the agents of the Alaska Steamship Company.

Tried for Larceny

On Monday, Donald Austin and wife and Ellen Jackson were tried for Larceny in Commissioner's Court.

The witnesses called for the prosecution were, Chief and Mrs. Shakes, Geo. Shakes, Eugene Gefey, Geo. Bradley and Andrew.

According to the testimony of Chief Shakes, Mrs. Shakes and Geo. Shakes, Moses had money shortly before leaving on the fatal trip up the Stickine. They identified the empty purse, the hat and coat found in the boat, to be the property of Moses Shakes. They also testified that they found three lights broken on the boat and that it started from Wrangell in good condition.

The story of the disappearance of Moses Shakes and the search was brought out by the testimony of the hunting party. The facts were given in testimony by Eugene Gefey and corroborated by the witnesses Bradley and Andrew.

The party had been out on a bear hunt and went up the Stickine past Andrew's Creek about 1 o'clock on the 12th. They returned to Andrew's cabin to camp for the night and found the parties off the Yankee in bed and supposed to be asleep except Ellen Jackson who spoke to them and informed them that Moses was on-board the boat.

The next morning they saw Donald Austin and wife leave the camp and go to the Yankee. When Austin returned and reported Moses was not on his boat, they immediately searched the boat and found the empty pocketbook, the coat and hat, the blood stains and the disconnected ignition wiring. They also stated that the pipe leading to the gas tank was broken and tied with rope and that the bilge was full of gasoline. Then after a more thorough search for the body the party returned to Wrangell.

Officer Skelton who make the arrests was then sworn and stated that he made a thorough search of the defendants when he made the arrests and that a little money was found on the person of Ellen Jackson and six dollars in the house of Donald Austin. He also stated that when he arrested Ellen Jackson she said she was going to "tell all about it" but examination and cross examination of the defendant failed to bring out anything that would convict any of the accused and they were formerly acquitted by the jury, after a summing up by Mr. Lewis of the points brought out by the trial.

To say the least, the disappearance of Moses Shakes, the finding of this empty purse and the fact that he had money before leaving Wrangell puts grave suspicions on the other members of the party. The fact that natives are extremely cautious about anything that is connected with drink makes the prosecution of such cases very difficult.

Protests Arrive At Washington

Alaska Towns Aroused At Vaccination Order

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Scores of cablegrams from Alaska are pouring in here today, protesting vigorously against the Seattle vaccination order, and both Governor Clark and Delegate Wickersham, supported by the coast delegation in congress, have visited the surgeon general to protest in person against the order.

The surgeon general has promised to immediately investigate the matter, and it is expected the order will be revoked very shortly.—Juneau Dispatch.

Judge Lyons' Trip

Judge Lyons has announced through the clerk of the court, of the third Alaskan judicial division, the following dates for his western Alaska trip: Valdez term June 19, Unalaska term July 17, Dillingham term July 26, Nushagak term July 27, Unga term August 21, Kodiak term August 28 and the return term at Valdez on September 2.

This traveling court is probably the only one of its kind in the world. The first journey was made last year and attracted considerable attention.

It is a great convenience to witnesses and commissioners who are thus relieved of the necessity of coming to Valdez.—Juneau Dispatch.

Old Timer Drowned

William Alexander, well known to old timers in the Klawak section, was accidentally drowned last week, according to a letter received by J. W. Woodford, the mining man. Alexander was going from a pile driver to shore in a boat, when he accidentally upset, and was drowned. His body was recovered in about thirty minutes but all efforts to restore life were futile.—Juneau Dispatch.
